

Clean Burn Waste Oil Furnaces

Volume 3, Issue 5

ECO HEATING SYSTEMS, INC.

May 2014

Storage Tanks

Did you know your waste oil is like GOLD to you? It is better than money in the bank when you store ample waste oil to provide your fuel for the next heating season.

This past winter, we received a few calls asking if we knew where waste oil could be purchased.

How much waste oil do you generate? Do you need extra storage capacity? Eco Heating Systems has tanks in stock. We have: 1,000 gallon, 500 gallon, and 275 gallon.

Because you understand its value

Did you receive the early bird discount?

Our last several newsletters have recommended you schedule your periodic maintenance when you can take advantage of the discount. If you haven't had us out to do your annual maintenance, please call or email us today.

The quality of your oil will affect the operation of your waste oil furnace. A tank maintenance program will help ensure that you have uncontaminated used oil.

We strongly suggest you contact your waste oil hauler to empty the sludge, water, chlorine and/or anti-freeze out of your tank completely after heating season. Do this NOW so you can begin to re-fill the tank.

Be prepared for the next heating season!

Please note...

Gasoline and food prices continue to increase. We usually find this out once we arrive to pump our fuel or purchase our groceries. While it stands to reason that prices are increasing without notice, Eco Heating Systems is able to give advance warning to help you avoid higher costs.

If you are anticipating getting a Clean Burn, please note there is a price increase coming. Call our office to get your quote, before the increase to receive best pricing.

Please do not wait if you have a recent quote! Sign your quote and return it along with your deposit..

Welcome to the Clean Burn Family!

Lancaster Home Builders in Lancaster, PA had Eco Heating Systems install a CB3250 in their shop area so that they can produce their heat using the waste oil they collect from their work vehicles and equipment.
